When Shell Oil needed ice-class oil spill response barges to work in some of the world’s most extreme working environments – the Beaufort and Chukchi Seas – they called Crowley. Our management team engineered, constructed and outfitted the three barges that will support this important off-shore operation.

You can count on Crowley.