About Crowley

Crowley has been a consistent, responsive partner of the U.S. government for more than 100 years in peace time and during mobilizations in times of conflict or natural disasters. We stand ready to support missions globally by providing speed to theater of operations, 24/7/365 readiness, experience and high-performance. At a moment's notice, anywhere in the world our customers are served by industry specialists and military veterans who leverage the expertise, scale, and scope of our commercial business to solve government's toughest challenges. While our support dates back a century, today we continue our proud tradition of serving government agencies with a portfolio of commercial services adapted to meet their missions, including:

- Logistics: Total supply chain provider of trucking, air, and ocean transportation and related global freight forwarding services including managed transportation and analytics, expeditionary program management and on-site representation
- Maritime: Vessel technical management, chartering, towing, naval architecture, range operations, and foreign military sales
- Energy: Petroleum storage, distribution by sea and land, and LNG solutions
- Information Technology: Systems engineering, development, design and maintenance, cyber security, big data analytics and managed technology services
